

The Gap

a vacancy between my teeth

an awkward story
you think you know what it is you think you peeked in there “your daddy’s poor”
“your daddy didn’t love you”
and this in a “Who’s your daddy” kind of world is the Separator

reminds you of other gaps and gashes and dark alleyways you feel you might fall in that crack get lost
never be found again

could be good for whistlin’ a tune
if I knew how to whistle
and knew any tunes
